Onboarding: Setting the Stage for Success

Dale Duncan, RN, MHSA, CPHQ

Credentialing and privileging are expensive and time consuming factors. A strong onboarding program sets the stage for a successful transition for the candidate and for the medical staff professional. Successful onboarding also prevents re-work and loss of good candidates. Attendees will assimilate methods for a strong onboarding process to either reaffirm or refine current methods. Attendees will associate the onboarding process with the development of a member of the medical staff or allied health staff through the provisional year and the FPPE. Attendees will develop an understanding that onboarding goes beyond the medical staff office and will hear how others are developing stronger ties and collegiality with other departments.
